Homeopathic pustules which are taken internally.

This blog is about homeopathy, a lot of people love it and a lot of people don't like, whatever your thoughts, this I hope to be an interesting log to read. So kick off your shoes, put on the kettle for a cuppa and settle down into reading this blog as it is gonna be a big one.

And now we shall begin!

Homeopathy works on the aspect of "energy medicine" or as most holistic healers know it as vibrational medicine and below is a diagram of the different energy levels of the body.

A further explanation of the etheric bodies are listed below:

The Seven Aura Layers

1. The Etheric Layer or Etheric Body

The etheric layer is the first layer of the aura and spans ½ inch to 2 inches from the surface of the skin, outlining the body. This field of energy connects primarily with the first chakra, our organs, glands and meridians, and relates to the condition and health of the physical body.

2. The Emotional Layer or Emotional Body

The second aura layer is called the Emotional Layer and extends two to four inches away from the physical body encircling it in the shape of an oval. This layer is primarily connected to the second chakra, feelings, emotions and experience. It is constantly in a state of change, reflective of our current mood. This layer also stores unsettled emotions such as fear, resentment, and loneliness.

The energies present in the second aura layer will communicate with the first layer, and then process this information into the physical body. Physical tension, muscle cramps and upset stomach could be a result of the etheric (first) layer being bombarded by emotional pain residing in the second aura layer.

3. The Mental Layer or Mental Body

The third aura layer is the Mental Layer. Its extension is four to eight inches from the physical body. This layer is connected to the third chakra, our consciousness, ideas, logical processes, belief systems and intellect. In this layer, thoughts and ideas are rationalized and validated. Mental health and mental issues present themselves in this aura layer.

4. The Astral Bridge Layer, Astral Body, or Bridge Layer

The fourth layer of the aura is referred to in short as either the Astral Layer or Bridge Layer. It is eight to twelve inches away from the physical body and connects to the fourth chakra, our sense of love, well-being, expansion and life-balance.

Where the first three layers of the aura reflect our physical nature and presence, the fourth layer is the window to our spiritual nature, separating the first three layers from the outer three aura layers.

5. The Etheric Template Layer

The fifth aura layer is the Etheric Template Layer. It is one to two feet away from the physical body. It connects with the fifth chakra, sound, vibration, communication and creativity. Primarily this layer of the aura serves as a carbon copy of the physical body on the spiritual plane.

The etheric template layer is the seat of our higher consciousness and higher will. Vibrations from the physical plane and the spiritual plane communicate here, thus manifesting thoughts into substance, and creating paths for all possibilities.

6. The Celestial Layer or Celestial Body

The sixth aura layer is called the Celestial Layer. It extends two to three feet away from the body and reflects our subconscious mind. It is where the physical mind comes to connection with the spiritual mind through meditation and devotional practices.

It is connected with the sixth chakra, memories, dreams, spiritual awareness, intuitive knowledge, trust, honesty, and unconditional love. The Celestial Layer holds our experiences of having a connection to something greater than ourselves.

7. The Ketheric Template Layer or Causal Layer

The seventh aura layer is known as the Ketheric Template Layer or Causal Layer. It is connected to the seventh chakra, all knowledge and all possibilities. This layer protects and holds all other aura layers together, and contains the blueprint of our spiritual path, reflecting all of the soul's experiences and events through time.

The Ketheric Layer is the link to "God", "Creator", "Source", or "All That Is" within each individual, and extends three to five feet away from the physical body, depending on our spiritual state.

It is these different energy levels of the body that can get disrupted with pollution, illness, EM (electromagnetic - TVs, Computers) etc. The body will eventually come down with a problem like achy joints, colds, anxiety attacks. In vibrational medicine, there will often be holes in the "aura".

Now back to the cool bit, the science. Believe it or not, scientists have believed that our world is made up of energy and different waveforms which encompass most states of matter and, some scientists believe that the universe is made of intertwining energy patterns.

You may be surprised to know that the science has evidence on the body's energy fields and they come from a scientist called Dr Saxton Burr.

Professor Saxton Burr, Anatomy Professor from Yale University Medical School.

He wrote a book, "The electrical patterns of life" which is his measurements and theory on "L fields" or fields of life. This is a dynamic energy present in all living matter which can also account for colour healing to be used.

Resonance, what is that?

As we are talking about energy fields, resonance is that when one object or entity vibrating at a particular frequency comes into the proximity of another whose fundamental (energetic) frequency is in the same waveband, the latter will start to resonate in sympathy with the former.

Taken from "Principles of vibrational healing" by Clare G. Harvey and Amanda Cochrane.

Resonance to the organic chemists amongst us would know this through using NMR instrumentation. We know when the compound is exposed to a magnetic field from the magnet, the electrons are pulled around and therefore that gives us the spectrogram. That shows us via the chemical shift that there is molecules resonating at a certain frequency and the more acidic or electron withdrawing any groups on the compound, the higher up they are to be found.

In science and in vibrational healing, the same principle of detection within the structures is to be found.

Homeopathy

Finally, we can get to the interesting bit of pulling it altogether to explain how it works and it therefore proves that the natural medicines are not to be sniffed at.

There has been a recent blog¹ which goes on about the vibration aspect of the homeopathy, but there is a much missed out theory in homeopathy and this "nanoscience" as shown in this blog by Janey Goddard².

Nanoscience

The official definition of Nanoscience is thus:

It is widely accepted that although the prefix nano specifically refers to 10⁻⁹ units, in the context of nanoscience the units should only be those of dimensions, rather than of any other unit of scientific measurement, such as for time, energy or power.

Moreover, it is unrealistic, for practical purposes, to consider the prefix 'nano-' to solely and precisely refer to 10⁻⁹ metres, just as it is not considered that 'micro-' specifically and solely concerns something with a dimension of precisely 10⁻⁶ metres. It is further widely agreed that one of the characteristics that confers special properties to products of nanotechnologies is the large surface area to volume ratio that is encountered at very small dimensions and that those of the order of 100 nm and below are most likely to be associated with such properties.

Taken from Scientific committee on Emerging and Newly Identified Health Risks paper on Nanoscience and Nanotechnology³.

In reality, will the rationale be that the mechanism of homeopathy lies in the rationale of nanotechnology having its reactive areas on the outside of the molecule as opposed to the inner molecule as the reactive area is now on the outside and is more dense. This would almost make it more reactive. Sadly as it is a relatively new field, there is much studies needed to be carried out on it.

To finish up this blog, the combination of the vibrations and the smallest doses which can create an effect on the system to get vibrations into alignment etc, so, you can really say that it is a sum of a few things.

I hope you enjoy reading the blog and if there are more questions, put them in the comments section.
